STUDY COURSE OF

AT ART INSTITUTE

Saturday Classes in Designing and Ceramic Art

TEACHERS: LOUIS J. MILLET
          JOHN W. HASBURG

The success of the special classes last spring, and the demand for thorough instruction in artistic design, and the technical methods of applying design to ceramics, has led to the establishment of these classes.

The object is to convey to the pupils fundamental principles and practical methods in connection with ceramic design, and to acquaint them with the historical sources of design in all countries, so that they may independently create new and original designs suited to the shapes of the ware, and if possible distinctly American in style.

The Saturday Morning Class from 10 to 12 o'clock, will study Design, as applied to ceramic art. Mr. Louis J.
Millet.

The instruction will include the study of organic ornament in its various phases—that having geometric forms for its basis, and that which consists of conventionalized plant forms.

Elements of geometry and the use of instruments.
The various effects obtained by analogy and contrast,
by individual repetition and repetition in series.

The general theory of the distribution of areas and the study of radiating and concentric lines will be taken up in a series of original compositions.

The decorative use of colors and their harmony will be carefully considered.

The Saturday Afternoon Class from 1 to 3 o'clock, will study processes and materials. Mr. John W. Hasburg.
The instructions will include:
The practical application of geometrical and conventional designs to ceramics.

Tools and appliances used in ceramic decoration.
Tinting and grounding methods—wet and dry processes.
Eradicators of various kinds—how made and used.
Enameling, jewelers, etc.
Golds, bronzes, lustres, etc.—application of.
Burnishing, scouring and chasing of golds and bronzes.
Paste for relief gold—methods of applying.
Banding wheel—its uses.
Special uses of the various kinds of brushes.
Mixing, fluxing and matting colors.
Etching on china and glass.
Firing china and glass.

These subjects will be taught by practical demonstration, lectures and individual instructions, as may be demanded, in cooperation with the designing class, and no pupils will be received except those who already have some knowledge of design, or are attending the morning class.

Pupils in these classes enjoy the free use of the fine collection of books on designing, color, etc., in the library of the Art Institute, an invaluable aid to the designer.

The instruction is intended, first of all to be practical, so that the pupils may make their own designs and apply them properly to the ware.

Special terms $5.00—12 consecutive lessons. This includes club membership and privileges and morning class instruction. Afternoon course $2.00 extra, payable in advance. Pupils may enter any Saturday and pay from date of entry. First lessons Saturday, January 5th, 10 a.m. sharp.
