The Art Institute of Chicago was incorporated May 24, 1879, for the "founding and maintenance of schools of art and design, the formation and exhibition of collections of objects of art, and the cultivation and extension of the arts of design by any appropriate means." The Museum building upon the Lake Front, first occupied in 1893, is open to the public every week day from 9 to 6, Sundays from 12:15 to 10 p.m. Admission is free to members and their families at all times, and free to all upon Wednesdays, Saturdays, Sundays and public holidays.

The Art School, in the same building, includes departments of Drawing, Painting, Sculpture, Illustration, Decorative Designing, Normal Instruction, and Architecture.

All friends of the Art Institute are invited to become members. Annual Members pay a fee of ten dollars a year. Life Members pay one hundred dollars and are thenceforth exempt from dues. Governing Members pay one hundred dollars upon election and twenty-five dollars a year thereafter. Upon the payment of four hundred dollars, Governing Members become Governing Life Members and are thenceforth exempt from dues. All receipts from life memberships are invested and the income only expended.

All members are entitled, with their families and visiting friends, to admission to all exhibitions, receptions, public lectures, and entertainments given by the Art Institute, and to the use of the Ryerson reference library upon art.

Visitors desiring to see the collections of the Museum under guidance may make appointments with the museum instructors at the office of the Director.

EXHIBITION OF SCULPTURE

The scale of an exhibition of American sculpture, such as was shown by the National Sculpture Society during the past summer, would in itself have great importance; but the real significance of this exhibition is due to the fact that the present time marks the culmination of a period in the development of American sculpture. This art, in the United States, has been growing steadily toward a condition of more perfect self-consciousness, until now, under the stimulus of the problems involved in the great Pacific Expositions, the achievement of a number of years has rushed to what may be called a climax, both in the amount of work produced and in the quality of that work. It is, therefore, highly fitting that this moment should be marked by an exhibition such as that of the National Sculpture Society. This exhibition was originally installed in the Albright Art Gallery in Buffalo and in the park surrounding that gallery. The importance of this collection makes it desirable that a larger part of the country should see it. For this reason, the entire collection, with the exception of a few pieces which could not be safely moved, nor fittingly installed under present conditions, has been brought to The Art Institute; and to this collection a number of important additions have been made. The entire group now constitutes the sculpture section of the Twenty-Ninth Annual Exhibition of American Oil Paintings and Sculpture.

The Art Institute expresses grateful acknowledgment of the cooperation of the National Sculpture Society, the Albright Art Gallery of Buffalo, and the individual sculptors who have generously contributed toward making this exhibition a success.
