FOREWORD

ARCHITECTURE as social service is no less real and should be no less relied upon by the people in these strenuous times of war than it is when peace prevails.

It is easy to realize that war brings destruction. It is true also that war brings construction. The development of the state and the application of the builders' art go hand in hand. Even while war is in progress builders must build, first for the demands of the military and second for the usual demands of daily peaceful life in order that the results — the profits of our commerce and our construction may be made available for the special support of the government in its peculiar needs.

The architects of Chicago believe that complete cessation of the work of that vast portion of society which is engaged in building would be disastrous to our war necessities — they believe it a patriotic duty to build, and to urge the public to continue the erection of all buildings required for reasonable purposes in times of peace.

That the people may be induced to form similar convictions and to realize the value of the indispensable social service of building, this exhibition has been opened in the galleries of the Art Institute. This is in accordance with a custom, now too thoroughly rooted to be allowed to lapse even in such times as these while the great struggle goes on for the liberation of the arts as well as for the permanent freedom of the world.

MEDAL OF HONOR AWARDED BY THE ILLINOIS CHAPTER OF THE AMERICAN INSTITUTE OF ARCHITECTS

The Illinois Chapter of the American Institute of Architects has established a gold medal of honor for award to designers of buildings represented in the Annual Chicago Architectural Exhibition, the conditions accompanying the proposed award being as follows:

That any architectural work in the State of Illinois, if completed within five years previous to the date of exhibition, may be offered for consideration.

That the architect or architects who design the work, in order to be eligible to the award, must present for exhibition one or more photographs of the executed work, also one or more drawings, including a small scale plan, and shall submit to the jury such working drawings of the structure as they may desire to examine. Any work represented in the exhibit may be eligible for consideration by the jury, provided that at least a plan, and also a photograph of the executed work, shall be brought before the jury on their request. Only architects or firms of architects maintaining offices in the State of Illinois will be eligible to the award.

That an architect or firm of architects to whom this medal may be awarded once shall be ineligible for a future award.

That the medal shall be accompanied by a certificate setting forth the name of the completed structure which formed the basis of the award together with the considerations which in the opinion of the jury characterized the structure as worthy of the award.

That the jury shall consist of seven architects, one the President of the Chicago Architectural Club, one the President of the Illinois Chapter, one the President of the Illinois Society of Architects, and four architects appointed by the Illinois Chapter.

That one medal only shall be awarded each year; and four members of the jury voting for the author or authors of the same work shall be necessary to an award; and that no award shall be made if in the opinion of the jury no work presented is sufficiently meritorious.

2. The American Academy in Rome is an institution established by law, and incorporated by the Government of the United States.

3. The seat of the Academy is at Rome, the art center of the world.

4. The academic course is post-graduate.

5. Those who are awarded Fellowships are expected to remain at the Academy for three years.

6. The direct and intimate influences of the world's masterpieces which surround the student in Rome will prove of incalculable advantage in the creation of the future art of America. The far-reaching benefits that have resulted to France, Germany, Spain, and other nations through the establishment of Schools of Art in Rome justify the conviction that like or greater benefits will be secured to the United States through the foundation of a similar national institution.

ORIGIN AND DEVELOPMENT

A number of artists, who had been engaged together upon the work of the World's Fair at Chicago, established in 1894 "The American School of Architecture in Rome." Their object was to enable American students of architecture who had passed with honor through leading technical schools, or who had been equally qualified by private instruction, to develop their powers more fully, under the most favorable conditions of direction and environment. The students of the school were selected by competition and the school was wholly supported by the artists referred to and their personal friends.

The rapid improvement in the work of the students and their enthusiasm convinced those who were interested that the scope of the school should be made broader, and should include the allied arts of sculpture and painting. To this end representative sculptors, painters, and architects, together with other persons interested in the subject, decided in 1897 to found, on the lines of the French Academy in Rome, a school which should be open to American students of sculpture, painting, and architecture.

In pursuance of this design The American Academy in Rome was incorporated under the laws of the State of New York, in June, 1897. A constitution was then adopted, and suitable rules made for the government of the institution. All these steps were taken under advice of competent legal counsel. In 1901 Hon. John Hay, the Secretary of State of the United States, authorized the Ambassador at Rome to accept the position of trustee ex officio of the Academy, and directed him to secure for it "all the privileges and exemptions that are accorded by the Italian government to like institutions of other countries."

The Academy has recently effected a consolidation with the American School of Classical Studies, and the combined institutions, under the title of The American Academy in Rome, are now housed in new quarters upon a superb site on the Janiculum, overlooking all of Rome.

This great enlargement of the scope of the Academy's work is destined to be of first advantage to its Fellows, through the intimate association of those engaged in the study of the Fine Arts with the students of classical history.

Commencing in 1915 a Fellowship in Landscape Architecture will be awarded every third year.

OBJECTS OF THE ACADEMY

To afford exceptional advantages to a few chosen scholars is not the chief end of the Academy, but is rather the means to that end, which is to help to raise the standard of art education in the United States. In the same way that the great national competition in France for the Grand Prix de Rome has made the École des Beaux Arts in Paris the first art school of the world; so, it is believed, will the national competitions instituted by the American Academy increase the efficiency of the universities and art schools of America.

One of the great advantages offered by the Academy in Rome is that, for the first time, American students in architecture, painting, and sculpture are brought together under the same roof, in constant intercourse with each other, enjoying that union and intelligent co-operation of the arts which in the end produce the highest results. Here they are enabled to work together, surrounded by monuments of architecture, and sculpture, unrivaled paintings, and galleries filled with masterpieces of every epoch. No other city in the world presents so wide a field of study or one so filled with the best precedents.
